PREFACE

For several years I have been gathering information with reference to the Gadd family and since I find no genealogy of the family has been published, I have decided to preserve in book form the information which I have for the benefit of future generations.

Most members of the family have rendered all assistance possible for which I extend my sincere thanks. Some few failed to respond to my letters requesting information. This is by no means a complete sketch of the entire family which is sparsely scattered throughout the United States, but I have made the portion hereinafter set forth as complete as possible, but it may develop that there are some few errors.

The purpose has not been so much to set forth achievements or failures of members of the family, but rather to set forth so far as possible the line of descent from the most remotely known ancestor down to the present time, with special attention to male members of the family. May I express the hope that some other member of the family will hereafter, say in fifty or seventy-five years, revise and bring this genealogy down to date.

JOSEPH HAYDEN GADD,

GADD GENEALOGY

The ancestors of the Gadd family in the United States came from England and Scotland, and the name in England and in this country was spelled Gad until about 1800, when the spelling gradually changed to Gadd. The family name appears quite common around Bristol, Blagdon and Manchester and they are sparsely scattered throughout England and Scotland. There are twelve of the name in London who have telephones. C. J. Gadd of London has written a number of religious books. George Gadd of England was a near golf professional a few years ago. The Right Reverend Monsignor Cannon, Charles Joseph Gadd, who died in 1907, had for many years been Vicar General to the Bishop of Salford. There is a tradition handed down that the first high hat ever worn by the King of England was made by a hat manufacturer by the name of Gad in Manchester.

As to the origin of the name it has been suggested that it probably comes down from the seventh son of Jacob. "And Leah said, a troop cometh, and she called his name Gad." Gen. 30-11. Following the biblical history down several centuries later we find them loyal to King David and that they were "Men of war, fit for battle, that could handle shield and Buckler." 1st Chron. 12-8. It is probable that the name Gade, Gaddy, Gaddis, Gaddes, Gedd and Geddes were derived from the original name Gad and the variations in spelling due to the language in different countries.

From where and when they came to England, we know not. The name Gad is quite common in Denmark, also Sweden and in Russia. One line of the family in Denmark has the adoptive name of Gad. Tue Gad of Carlottenlund, Denmark, states that in 1734, a Clergyman by the very common name of Jensen decided to change his name to some biblical name and opened his Bible at Gen. 49-19 and there read, "Gad, a troup shall overcome him, but he shall overcome at the last." Jenson adopted the name of Gad and passed it on to his twenty-one children who have many descendents in Denmark. Another line of the family in Denmark can be traced back to 1623. It is possible that members of the family came from England to Denmark while Kanute, the Great, was King of England, as well as Denmark, about 1015 to 1035, or the reverse may have been true, and members of the family come from Denmark to England about this time.

The first settlement in the United States was made in and around Baltimore. William Gadd, Revolutionary soldier, in his application for a pension, No. S 2231, states that he was born in Baltimore county, Maryland, June 30, 1759, and was a son of Absalom Gadd. He later moved to Pennsylvania.

Joseph Gadd settled in North Carolina in 1774.

Elijah, Vize and Ignatious Gadd were early settlers in Pennsylvania. In the last hundred years there have been several members of the family come from England to different parts of the United States.

REVOLUTIONARY WAR RECORDS

William Gadd and Vize Gadd both served as privates from Bedford County, Pennsylvania, in the War for Independence, as shown by Volume 4 (5th series) page 604, Pennsylvania Archives and other records. William Gadd was granted a pension for his services.

Thomas Gadd and Robert Gadd both served in the Fifth Maryland Regiment, Volume 18, page 536, Maryland Archives, and Washington records. William Gadd served in the Second North Carolina Regiment, Washington records.

UNITED STATES CENSUS 1790

Until 1850 the United States Census did not give the names of children, but only the name of the head of the family and the number of children under and over sixteen years of age.

The first census in 1790 shows the following with reference to the Gadd family.

1. Thomas Gadd, Queen Annes County, Maryland, one son and two daughters over 16.
2. Thomas Gadd, Talbot County, Maryland, one son and one daughter over 16.
3. Agnicious Gadd, Huntingdon County, Pennsylvania, one son under 16, and one son and three daughters over 16.
4. William Gadd, Huntingdon County, Pennsylvania, three sons under 16 and two sons and two daughters over 16.
5. Joseph Gadd, Richmond County, North Carolina, one daughter over 16.
6. Joseph Gadd, Jr., Richmond County, North Carolina, three sons and five daughters under 16 and one son over 16.

VIRGINIA, WEST VIRGINIA AND KENTUCKY LINE

1. THOMAS GADD (son of ..... ?)

Thomas Gadd and William Warwick Gadd moved from around Uniontown, Penn., to Franklin county, Virginia, in 1792. By deed dated March 29, 1792, DB 2, p. 345, Thomas Gadd purchased 130 acres of land from Luke Stanifer for 12 pounds, and by deed dated Feb. 3, 1794, DB 3, p. 108, he purchased 411 acres from Stanifer for 30 pounds, both tracts of land on Story creek.

2. WILLIAM WARWICK GADD (son of Thomas)

William Warwick Gadd was born about 1780 and died in 1870. By deed dated March 1, 1805, DB 5, p. 131, Thomas Gadd conveyed to William Warwick Gadd the 130 acres of land above mentioned on Story creek. In 1831 he purchased 236 acres of land on Story creek. His wife's name was Dicie, and they had the following children, James, Sebert, Armstrong, John S. and Dicie, the latter having married James Cain in Kentucky. By deed dated May 17, 1832, DB 13, p. 332, William Warwick Gadd conveyed to his son, Sebert, all of his lands, 9 head of cattle, 44 hogs, 13 bee stands, 1000 pounds of tobacco and other property, retaining a life estate. In March, 1833, they sold all of their property for $700 cash, and the entire family (except James) set out over the Boone Trail in an ox wagon for Kentucky and after several weeks journey they arrived in Rockcastle county and purchased lands on Clear creek, where several of their descendents still live.

1. JOSEPH GADD, SR.

On July 23rd, 1774, Deed Book D., page 84, Richmond County, North Carolina a grant of 640 acres of land on Dry Creek was made to Joseph Gadd (Gad) which is the first record of the family in this state. The tradition of the family is that he came from England, although it is possible that he came down from Pennsylvania or Maryland as about this time a number of people were drifting down towards the South, and the name of Joseph was a very common name in Pennsylvania. By deed dated September 24, 1792, Deed Book C, page 127, Joseph Gad, Sr., conveyed to Joseph Gad, Jr., 140 acres of this land. By deed dated August 22, 1795, Deed Book C, page 473, Joseph Gad, planter, conveyed to Jesse Moore, planter, 500 acres of this land which was on Dry Creek of the Great Pee Dee River.

2. JOSEPH GADD, JR. (son of Joseph, Sr.)

Joseph Gadd, Jr., bought and sold quite a lot of land on the waters of the Great Pee Dee River. He made conveyances to William Gadd, Major Gadd and James Gadd, who are believed to have been his sons, but William may have been his brother, since he received several grants of land himself from the State, and traded quite a lot in lands. The name here, as elsewhere in the country, was spelled Gad until along about 1800, when they began to spell it Gadd.

The United States census of 1790 shows Joseph Gadd, Sr., as a resident of Richmond County with one daughter, and also Joseph Gadd, Jr., a resident of the same county, with four sons and five daughters. The records of Richmond county show that Joseph Gadd, Jr., and Elizabeth Jones were married on September 6, 1792, with William Love as surety on the marriage bond. This appears to have been his second marriage.

The records of Montgomery County, North Carolina, show that Mastin Gadd conveyed to Pinkney Gadd his interest in the dower land of his mother Elizabeth by deed dated November 12, 1853, Deed Book 17, page 396, which establishes the fact that Mastin and Pinkney were brothers and sons of Joseph and Elizabeth, also, Washington, Joseph and Thomas appear to have been sons of Joseph, Jr. and Elizabeth. The two Josephs, Mastin, Pinkney, Washington, William, Major and James Gadd bought and sold quite a lot of lands on Dry Branch and Cheeks creek of the Great Pee Dee River near the line of Richmond and Montgomery counties. By deed dated December

MARYLAND AND OHIO LINE

1. WILLIAM GADD (Soldier of the Revolution)

William Gadd was born in Baltimore County, Maryland, June 30, 1759, and died in Monroe County, Ohio, February 14, 1835. He married Nancy Drake in Maryland and moved to Bedford County, Pennsylvania and served in the War for Independence as a private in the Bedford county militia and after the war rendered frontier service. In 1832 he was granted a pension for his services, No. S-2231, in which he stated the date and place of his birth as above and that he was a son of Absalom Gadd. The census of 1790 shows him to have been a resident of Huntingdon County, Pennsylvania, and that he had five sons and two daughters. It is known that David, Joseph and Giles were his sons (see Ohio) and it is believed that Broad and Nathan Gadd were his sons. It appears that he had three daughters, Nancy Gadd-Smith, Malinda Gadd-Wood and Ruth Gadd-Wood. It is believed that the first settlement in this country by the family was made in and around Baltimore, and that soon afterwards a settlement was made in Pennsylvania, probably by very close relatives of those in Maryland, since Agnicious Gadd was a resident of Bedford County, Pennsylvania, in 1790 when William Gadd also lived there. Elijah Gadd, an early settler in Pennsylvania, may have been a brother of William, since he had a son, Absalom, and the father of William was Absalom. The names William, Joseph, Thomas, James and Elijah have been very common names in the family. William Gadd has many descendents from Ohio to California, particularly in Iowa.
